

The Temple Church
Wednesday 6th July
1.15pm-1.45

Philip Hartmann (organ)

Carson Cooman (*1982)
Praeludium in festo S. Philippi apostoli

Thomas Aberg (*1952)
Swedish Folk-Song

Carson Cooman
Sonatina No. 4
1. Hamburg March
2. Pößneck Aria
3. Ulm Toccata-Fanfare

Imants Zemzaris (*1951)
Pastorale for Summer Flute

John Campbell MacLagan (1904-1927)
Bach's Strathspey

After one academic year in the USA, German organist Philip Hartmann studied musicology at the universities of Berlin and Hamburg followed by studies in church music at the Musikhochschule in Bremen. He also participated in organ masterclasses with Daniel Roth, Ben van Oosten, Almut Rößler, Günther Kaunzinger, Jon Laukvik and Christoph Bossert.

From 1986 to 1991, Hartmann was cantor and organist at the Protestant town church in Ehingen (Donau). Since 1991, he has worked as a church musician in Ulm at the Pauluskirche, and since 1999 also as a cathedral organist at Ulm Cathedral (Ulmer Münster). In 2004, he became the director of the Martin-Luther-Kantorei, and in 2005 he was appointed district cantor (Bezirkskantor) for the Ulm deanery.

Hartmann has played more than 700 organ recitals throughout Germany and Europe and has also appeared as organist and choirmaster in various TV and radio productions as well as on two solo CDs, recorded on the Link-Gaida organ in the Pauluskirche.

Hartmann has a particular interest in American and British organ music as well as contemporary compositions. He has given numerous world premieres, and about 50 works by contemporary composers have been dedicated to him.

Future organ recitals at the Temple Church

13 th July	Claudia Grinnell (Winchester Cathedral) Music by Rheinberger, William Lloyd Webber, Jehan Alain & Walton
20 th July	Timothy Wakerell (Concert organist) Music by Stanford, Langlais & Franck
27 th July	Simon Hogan (St Bartholomew the Great, Smithfield) Vierne, Bach, Judith Weir & Dupré

Organ recitals resume in October. For more information about the Temple Church's organ recital series, organ and musicians, please visit www.templechurch.com.